

PROMPT©-based Speech Therapy

What does PROMPT© stand for?

Prompts for Restructuring Oral Muscular Phonetic Targets

What is PROMPT©?

It is a technique that involves manipulating/shaping the oro-motor structures to help produce sound. It provides multi-sensory information (tactile, auditory, visual) to the speech system.

What types of disorders does it treat?

PROMPT© can be used with children and adults with varying speech disorders that are developmental or acquired. PROMPT can help people with apraxia, autistic spectrum disorder, developmental delays, dysarthria, dysfluency, hearing impairment and phonological difficulties.

Where can I find more information about PROMPT©?

You can find more information on the PROMPT© Institute website: <http://www.promptinstitute.com/>

Who can administer PROMPT©?

Speech-Language Pathologists who are “trained” or “certified” in PROMPT©. 2 speech therapists at Child & Family Development are PROMPT© trained:

MIDTOWN OFFICE

- Melinda Bumgardner Schatz, MA, CCC-SLP
mschatz@childandfamilydevelopment.com 704-332-4834 ext. 120

Read more about the Speech Therapy Team on our website and blog
www.childandfamilydevelopment.com
www.childandfamilydevelopment.com/blog